By Terrific Earthquake

Scenes of 1923 Recalled

HOW CAPITAL CITY WAS LAID WASTE
Scene in Tokyo after the disastrous quake of October, 1923, when fire added to the terror of the inhabitants. Photo shows the ruins of the Nihonbashi or retail district, and at right the "Street of Silver," so called because of the great amount of money that exchanged hands in the shops. At extreme right is shown a partly wrecked building in which was the main Japanese office of International Newsweek Corporation.

WHERE TERROR REIGNS
Map shows district where thousands are reported dead, wounded and homeless. The entire province of Tango, including Miyazaki, is said to be in ruins and refugees fled to Miyazaki.

DOMESTICITY AMONG RUINS
This is a scene of 1923 in Yokohama where the natives tried to restore some semblance of home, even to the detail of giving the baby its bath and making the best of their plight.

WHERE 700 WERE KILLED
Remains of a 12-story amusement tower in which 700 lives were snuffed out when the 1923 quake spread ruin throughout Tokyo.

BIG JAPANESE QUAKE CLAIMS THOUSANDS OF VICTIMS

BARES ATTACK SECRET

GIRL TELLS OF 'ETHER CONE' ATTACK

Telling an amazing story of an attack by a "boy friend" whom she had taken to ride in her own automobile, Miss Marion Miller of Weymouth broke her long silence today about the mysterious affair of February 14, when she was left to die by the roadside with an ether cone over her face.

Her secret suddenly attacked her without warning when her automobile became stalled in the snow, she declared, and after overcoming her fear, leaving her to inhale the fumes of the anesthetic.

During the time she spent at the hospital, following her strange experience, Miss Miller refused to talk about it. She will not now tell the name of her assailant.

"People are saying I tried to commit suicide and that is why I tell the true story of the awful experience," she said. "I did not try to take my life, for I have everything that a girl could wish for in the world."

"I was lured for a ride in my own automobile, accepting the invitation of a friend to go riding, but using my own car. We became stuck in the snow and as I know the locality about Middle street, well I went for assistance to tow us out."

"I couldn't find anybody and so I returned to the car and there my secret attacked me. He must have been mad. I fought bitterly, but I grew weaker and weaker and finally came to myself again with the ether cone on my face and the policeman there just finding me."

"I am not going to tell the name of the man who was with me. He looks like a good fellow anyway and I cannot bear to hurt him, as long as I was luck enough to come out of it without lasting injury."

"I would have told everything before, but I had no idea that these false stories would be circulated about me. This is the first time I have told the story to anybody."

LEFT TO DIE BY "BOY FRIEND"
Marion Miller of Weymouth, found in the snow with an ether cone over her face, has broken her long silence for the first time and tells of the ride in her own auto and of an attack by her companion. She reveals the facts because of intimations that she attempted suicide.

EX-SOLDIER IS HUNTED AS ATTACKER

With the blonde giant, Eric Noel, son of Gracie, hotel kitchen worker, still held on a charge of assault with intent to kill, Winthrop police today settled down to a hunt for a former Fort Belvoir soldier as the man who they believe lost and robbed Mrs. Florence Mounard in a Winthrop railroad station.

And while the hunt was on for the assailant, known to the police as a man dangerously discharged from service, Boston police set about checking finger prints in the Mabel Matheson murder case with finger prints taken from various objects in Winthrop.

It is one theory that there may be some connection between the brutal assault on Mrs. Mounard and the slaying of Mabel Matheson in a West Roxbury field.

A new angle of the case was presented today when police admitted Mrs. Mounard's assailant had attempted to attack her criminally, although robbery apparently was his initiating motive in beating her.

Mrs. Mounard said she was certain her assailant would have killed her had she not fought him so strenuously, being, scuffling, kicking and punching.

Winthrop police asserted today that the ex-soldier, whose name they knew and when they seek, has been placed in a quarter of witnesses at the Battery station of the Narrows Cause within ten minutes of the attack on Mrs. Mounard just before noon Saturday.

One witness said he gave the man a dime and when the witness heard of his train, the man was still in the station.

To hammer with a new handle, found in the station after the attack, is believed to belong to the man sought. One theory is that the attacker had planned to use the hammer in carrying out his robbery, but found it unnecessary to use it against a woman.

Police employees of Gracie, the Elmer Hotel, cook, who is charged with assault with intent to kill in connection with the attack on Mrs. Mounard, refused to his support today and through Joseph J. Henkin, manager of the hotel cafeteria, refused to give any information of the accused man, already identified by two slayer victims.

Hamlet

Ophelia's Love

Shakespeare's Immortal Tragedy

"Now see that noble and most sovereign reason, Like sweet bells jangled out of tune and harsh, Hamlet even prescient madman to the girl he loved, Ophelia, the daughter of Polonius, the king's lord high chamberlain. The king and queen observed Hamlet's strange action."

"Doubt truth to be a liar, But never doubt I love." Hamlet was deeply in love with Ophelia, and regretted that she, too, must regard him as a madman. He wrote her a farewell love letter, which Ophelia gave to her father, Polonius.

"The play's the thing Wherein I'll catch the conscience of the King." A company of strolling players came to Elsinore Castle and Hamlet coerced them in a play to be given for the king. In the drama one man murdered another in order to win his widow.

"Give o'er the play. Give me some light. Away!" When the play reached the point where the murder was committed by Polonius, as Claudius had killed his brother, the wily king shot to his feet and was so overwrought that he fled.

The Liberal commissioners, who returned to Managua after conferring with Moncada and General Cio, Sacasa's Minister of War, reported Moncada anxious to terminate the conflict by negotiations with the Conservative forces of President Diaz through Minister Eberhardt, but desisted first of securing approval by Sacasa.

It was said that Moncada's deference to President Cio's wishes for the Liberal commissioners, and that Mexico will order a continuance of the conflict.

53 FAMILIES IN FIRE TERROR

Three families who occupy the Paul Revere apartments on Broadway at Winter Street, here, had a bad scare today, when fire broke out in the basement, when the building and swept up an air shaft to the third floor.

Although the apartment house was damaged to the extent of $10,000, the living apartments were undamaged except by smoke.

The wife of Patrimony Pierce, Mrs. Mayne of the Riverside police force, discovered the fire and called 12-2, which was answered at 12-2.

The flames began to rise from the basement of the apartments, and the other sections of the building. Firemen quickly were called to the scene, which caused most of the damage.

SUCK UP POINT AT TRIAL

Washington, March 8 (A.P.)—(Counsel for Harry F. Sinclair in his Senate contempt trial today) accused of blocking former Senator A. B. Chandler from the room, a statement to the court about the case, even after the jury had been excluded from the room.

The trial is being held in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.

Witnesses a suit of merrymen, the millionaire oil magnate and sportsman not unmoved among his counsel at District Attorney Gordon, opening the case for the government, promised to produce evidence that would warrant the court in imposing a jail sentence.

The district attorney explained that Sinclair failed to answer the Senate committee, not on the ground that it would tend to incriminate him, but because the naval oil matters had been referred to special government counsel by the Senate itself.

The open address also included a review of the negotiations that led up to the leasing of the Teapot Dome reserve.

After the issues were presented, the matter came to the attention of the Senate committee, which was recommended that they were not made in good faith.

BRITISH-SOVIET BREAK HINTED
Geneva, March 8 (A.P.)—Intelligence that Great Britain contemplates breaking diplomatic relations with Russia was given today by Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign minister of Great Britain, in an interview with correspondents here before the League of Nations Council meeting.

"We don't want to destroy other nations, that is why we haven't," up to now, broken diplomatic relations with Russia before this," he said.

M. Ciolacu, Italian delegate, announced that the Italian Council of ministers had decided to raise the Russian convention of October 2, 1920, which definitely grants Romania to Romania.

M. Ciolacu hesitated to add that the Russian "should not be considered a hostile act against Russia."

WALKER TELLS HOW HE WAS MADE SEARLES' HEIR
New York, March 8 (A.P.)—Arthur T. Walker, the secretary to whom Edward P. Searles, Massachusetts, left the bulk of his $10,000,000 estate, took the stand in Supreme Court today to tell how he was brought by Angelo M. Ellison, former governor operator, to obtain the property.

Under direct examination, Walker told of his rise from a stenographer for Searles at $2,000 a year to a position which placed him in charge of Searles' New York interests at $10,000 a year. He said in 1915 Searles decided to make him heir and after the new will was drawn, Walker told of his rise from a stenographer for Searles at $2,000 a year to a position which placed him in charge of Searles' New York interests at $10,000 a year.

Young Couples Must Avoid Nagging

MANY a home has been broken up by nagging. Sometimes it is a nagging wife, sometimes a nagging husband. Deeply in love, many a young couple start out together upon their marriage, only to find that the wife is a nagging wife, sometimes a nagging husband. Deeply in love, many a young couple start out together upon their marriage, only to find that the wife is a nagging wife, sometimes a nagging husband.

There is not a cloud in the sky, but presently little trials make their appearance. Do our young friends face these trials together, bravely? Too frequently they do not.

BOTH DEVELOP INTO NAGGERS.
The wife blames the husband for them, the husband blames the wife. Then the nagging begins!

The wife nags—
If husband is not always enthusiastic about her cooking.
If he expresses admiration for Mrs. Jones' latest "bob."
If he brings home a "grouch."
If he forgets to wipe his feet.
If he forgets her birthday.

The husband nags—
If the coffee is cold.
If the fires are low.
If the baby is cross.
If the good woman has forgotten to press his pants.

TEAM-WORK WILL SAVE MANY HOMES.
And before long they are BOTH chronic naggers. Marriage is in part a business proposition. To make a success of it calls for patience, careful planning, the spirit of self-sacrifice. If both parties will only do a little team-work, take the bitter with the sweet, and remember that "alliance is golden," there would be fewer broken homes.

LAST CALLS FOR HOME LETTERS

In today's discussion of "What Makes Home Happy?" What Makes Home Unhappy? responsibility for domestic unhappiness is distributed impartially.

"Fifty-fifty," says Mrs. Edward S. Reardon, although not in these words, as she describes some of the faults of both young husbands and young wives.

If we were writing a caption for this letter we would call it "A Few Words About Nagging."

Husbands and wives may profit by a contribution to the interesting discussion with equal profit, more especially, perhaps young husbands and young wives, those who are "just starting out."

Do not longer delay sending in the letter on "What Makes Home Happy?" What Makes Home Unhappy?" which you have been considering for days.

The discussion, remember, closes on Saturday of this week. Ten Dollars for each letter printed until the first day, when the award will be FIFTY Dollars.

Your letter should not contain more than 250 words. It should be written on one side of the paper only. Be careful to address it to The Editor, Boston Evening American, P. O. Box 118, Boston, Mass.

ONTARIO TO CURB RUM

SALES TO ALL TOURISTS

Toronto, March 8 (A.P.)—Tourists and transients in Ontario would require government permits for the purchase of liquor under provisions of a government bill prepared for submission to an administration caucus and the House today.

Sale of beer by the glass and with meals, it is understood, will be prohibited, and single bottles would be sold at the government stores.

SAYS SOVIET WOMEN

ONLY ARE REALLY FREE

Moscow, March 8 (A.P.)—Soviet Russia is the only country in the world where women really are emancipated, declares Madame Lentine, widow of Premier Nikolai Lentine, who published an article in the press today on the occasion of "women's international emancipation day."

"Emancipation" day was observed in Moscow today with street parades, speeches and theatrical performances.

Madame Lentine's article urged her readers to adhere to "strict children in a military spirit" to guard against bourgeois attacks on the Soviet union.

WOOL MANUFACTURERS

IN ANNUAL ELECTION

Members of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, oldest trade organization in the United States gathered in Boston today for their annual business meeting. They represent the wool industry throughout the United States and today they heard reports on conditions of the industry in the various manufacturing sections of the country.

The election of officers will take place today. Franklin W. Hobbs of the Arlington Mills is the president of the association and Walter Humphreys is secretary and treasurer.

FAMOUS ELEPHANT, ON

RAMPAGE, PUT TO DEATH

Paris, March 8 (A.P.)—Mourning by thousands of children, Greece, the famous elephant in the Jardin des Plantes was executed today by asphyxiation.

Charles's long and honored career was ended because he suddenly became unmanageable. All the efforts of his keepers to calm him failed and when the situation became dangerous they reluctantly decided to put him to death. Gargard was one of the largest elephants in captivity.

LOSES HER 'GIN AND MA-IN-LAW' SUPPORT SUIT | 'DEATH' DRIVER HELD; 'VICTIM' STILL LIVES

Mrs. G. Vivian Farrell's contention that synthetic gin and "too much mother-in-law" justified her asking separate support from Joseph W. Farrell, also of Medford, was not borne out today by Judge Charles N. Harris in Middlesex Probate Court and he denied her petition.

Judge Harris ruled that she had failed to satisfy him that she was justified in living apart from her husband, a bond salesman.

At the hearing last week, Mrs. Farrell admitted that she had been married to Joseph W. Farrell, a 30-year-old son by her first husband.

Farrell had testified that she had concealed knowledge of the son from him and he learned of it through an anonymous informer.

SUSPECTED RUM-RUNNER HELD IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, March 8 (A.P.)—Philip McKiernan was arrested today on a charge that he violated the customs law by bringing liquor across the border from Canada at Troy, Vt. last January.

that have upped the competition. While China also will suffer for lack of European capital and European direction remains to be seen. The Chinese still don't know.

THERE is some comfort, however, for those that lose dollars in China or elsewhere. A dollar is worth today 60 cents in the U.S. and it's a good bet for the war, "worth" meaning purchasing power.

AMES AND WIFE IN 'FRIENDLY' DIVORCE' SUIT

Boston society, which received bits of a surprise sixteen years ago when the then Mrs. Lucy Fox Cabot married Winthrop Ames of New York, received another one this week when the divorce was granted. Paris that she has come to a friendly divorce.

The "friendly divorce," according to the report, will open the way for Ames to marry Winthrop's daughter, Miss Mary Shaw's "Joan Arc" in New York.

Ames is a well-known theatrical producer and his sailing features in the report was that which led to a conference in New York over the production of a play by Ames and Miss Lanahan, at which was agreed by the conference to be a friendly divorce. The divorce and Ames and the actress were reported to be.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

The Augustus F. Goodwins of Hamilton Are Spending the Hunting Season at Melton Mowbray, England

WHAT HUNTS BY DAY AND, smart balls to fill the evenings, life for the smart English hunting set is gay in the extreme. The very smartest and most brilliant ball was the Melton Hunt with all the enthusiasts who make Craven Lodge their headquarters among the dancers. It was the sort of occasion on which Royal Princesses shed the light of their countenances. And right in the thick of things are the Augustus F. Goodwins of Hamilton, who are putting in the hunting season at Craven Park Lodge at Melton Mowbray, Lincolnshire. The Goodwins are rounding out their English stay until the famous Grand National Steeplechase has been run at Aintree on March 25 before turning their faces homeward.

LOVELY "SISTER" CASWELL is in town. Even though she has been for some time Mrs. John Mitchell and lives for the greater part of the year in Cuba, Boston's inner set will never cease to call Mrs. John Caswell's lovely blonde daughter by her childish name of "Sister." I saw her with her mother fitting in and out of several shops looking charming in a gray corded coat with a gray fox collar and wearing a small gray felt on her golden curls. They are making the briefest of stays in town, so I understand, and have all manner of pleasure travel plans in view of the early spring.

HEAR THAT that very interesting artist person, Orlando Rowland, of New York, is cutting short his metropolitan stay this season and with Mrs. Rowland will be back at Marblehead almost as soon as the first crocus lifts its fragrant head and Spring is officially with us. The Rowlands are coming back for a most interesting task, commenced last summer but not then completed. They are having built a new studio workshop at Marblehead for Mr. Rowland. But "new" is scarcely the word to describe the feet architectural gem that is going up inside of their more-than-century-old house, "The Look-out," in famous old Lookout Court.

EVERY HAND-HEWN BEAM and floorboard is authentic walnut that goes into the studio is authentic early American and Colonial stuff, gathered by Mr. and Mrs. Rowland here, there and everywhere. They have literally scoured New England, finding some of the parts just almost next door, in Marblehead, and others as far away as Maine and New Hampshire. Truly there's nothing new about it. The ancient granite foundation to support brick in its square chimney, every last thing is mellow and ancient. Within and without it is weathered and gray and oiled, fitting perfectly into the rugged Marblehead landscape for all the world as though it had stood in the Court three hundred years. The Rowlands are just proud of their Court, with its tall old houses clinging precariously to Marblehead's rocky slopes.

WITH LOVING HANDS and the infinite care of true antiquarians, they have restored the old houses and great little garden spots to their ancient charm and beauty. Just as they were in days long gone by when the famous old port was in its heyday. Newcomers to the Court this summer will be the Walter Keith Shaws of Concord. But "new" is scarcely the word to describe the feet architectural gem that is going up inside of their more-than-century-old house, "The Look-out," in famous old Lookout Court.

IMMEDIATELY YOUNG Mr. Henry R. Gail had seen his brother, Samuel Elliot Gail, through the ordeal of a stately church ceremonial and find him to Miss Jane Peters, off he lies himself to Bermuda for a round of golf and tennis and racing as set forth so delightfully for visitors in the Summer issue. He sailed on Saturday last, while the E. Elliot Gails are on the high seas aboard the Conte Ross bound for a Mediterranean homeward. The John Parkisons of Charles River Valley also are in Bermuda, with their small son, Robert, and their daughter, Mary. Dr. and Mrs. Edward C. Streeter of Beacon street are at the Princess Hotel in Bermuda.

TRAVELING OFF in another direction is the Francis B. Sears family of Weston. They are doing one of the popular Mediterranean cruises—Mr. and Mrs. Sears and their son, Francis B. Sears, Jr.—and will be on the other side after the Conte Ross bound for a Mediterranean homeward. The John Parkisons of Charles River Valley also are in Bermuda, with their small son, Robert, and their daughter, Mary. Dr. and Mrs. Edward C. Streeter of Beacon street are at the Princess Hotel in Bermuda.

THE CUSHMAN'S ALSO DISSEMBER from the steamship France. They have been wandering leisurely about the Continent, traveling without set plan and doing much of their journeying by motor. Of course, being the horseman that he is, Mr. Cushman could not neglect his favorite sport, nor the opportunity to pick up several famous hunters and racers for his stables. Some very choice pieces of horseflesh preceded Mr. Cushman across the ocean, coming under the care of groomers, to take their place with the string already housed in the Cushman stables. Probably some of them make an appearance next June at the Country Club races, or at the Chestnut Hill or Framingham meets.

WHEN THE CHILDREN take to the Public Garden walks with their bicycles then surely Spring is on the way. Little Miss Mary Louise Hollander and her smaller sister, Ethel Loria Hollander, find the walks much to their liking for a spin. They are the small daughters of the S. H. Hollanders of Beacon street.

HE REFUSES TO LAY SUICIDE TO ATHLETICS

Princeton, N. J., March 3 (A.P.)—Frederick Wilson, of Louisville, Ky., a sophomore at Princeton University and for three terms an honor man, was found hanging in his room in Hamilton Hall today.

By ROBERT T. BURKELEY, International News Correspondent, New Haven, March 3 (A.P.)—Nothing so obvious as the need of "indulgence in athletics" can account for the "suicide wave" sweeping our colleges in the opinion of Yale authorities. It is a deeper proposition, a psychological problem that many men are seeking to solve.

So far the answer seems to be far away and Yale leaders refuse to pass "snap judgments" on the case. As for athletics, every Yale student is today indulging in them.

"Yale University does indeed seem to it that all her students have opportunity to take outdoor exercise, and has followed such a course for several years, even so many other American universities."

Howard of 2,000 students in Yale today participate in organized athletics, on a plan inaugurated a few years ago under Prof. Clarence W. Mendell, to put mass athletics in force. Mr. Woodcock said:

"The Yale Athletic Association has ever since its organization immediately after the war, promoted the policy of athletics for all undergraduates."

"Take fencing. There are now 110 undergraduates engaged in this sport, which requires hard training and good condition. Over 200 men are out for rowing. And we have hockey as well as basketball and in a single afternoon."

There are forty-five teams actively representing the university in competition during the current college year. As for organized athletics, there are in all sixteen departments at Yale, five major and thirteen so-called minor departments.

November 11 a Holiday
Hartford, Ct., March 3 (A.P.)—The Senate today, by rising vote, concurred with the House in making November 11 a legal holiday in Connecticut. The bill now goes to Governor Trumbull.

The HOLLYWOOD GIRL

Adventures of a Girl From New England in the Movie Colony

McCloud looked her up and down for a few seconds.

READ THIS FIRST

BOBBIE RANSOM, a demure little Dedham school teacher of 22, is "movie struck."

The drawback to her ambition is lack of money. Her widowed father will not lend her a penny. Neither will her maiden aunt GERTRUDE nor ANDREW JERROLD, who's in love with her and wants her to stay at home and marry him.

She finally borrows five hundred dollars from Mrs. PAR-KINS, a well-to-do widow who is her father's prospective second wife, and goes to Hollywood with a full purse and a high heart.

She finds a room in MRS. MANGAN'S house. There are three other girls who live there. One of the girls is STELLA DELROY, whose real name is RIGGS. Stella has been trying to get into pictures for six years, and has never passed out of the extra-girl stage. She takes Bobbie to the Magnific Studios. There Bobbie sees an assistant director named ANGUS MACCLOUD, who notices her particularly and gets her a place. At the studio, Bobbie falls down a flight of steps, almost into the arms of ROY SCHULTZ, a famous director. Schultz gives her a tiny part as a ballet dancer, much to the disgust of MONICA MONT, another "extra." Monica accuses Bobbie of falling purposely to attract Schultz's attention. When she goes on the set, Bobbie sees MacCloud, who's been watching for her, and comes towards her.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER XIII.

Bobbie pretended not to see MacCloud as he came toward her across the red-lip red wires that cluttered the floor.

She was overcome by a strange and puzzling shyness, and she never looked away from the gorgeous supercilious.

But with the fall of her eyes, she watched MacCloud come to her. With that sixth sense that every woman has, she knew that he was going to speak to her—and she wondered whether she wanted him to or not. She couldn't make up her mind.

"Monica said he was a snob, and Stella said he was 'stuck on himself,'" she thought, "but if he is why does he come over here and speak to me? He couldn't make up his mind."

Monica said he was a snob, and Stella said he was "stuck on himself," she thought, "but if he is why does he come over here and speak to me? He couldn't make up his mind."

He was beside her now, standing so close to her that the rough wool of his sweater brushed her bare shoulder. She didn't move away.

"Mr. Schultz says you're a part in this next scene," he said abruptly. Please turn to Page 15, Column 3.

$30.000 Raised for

Hebrew School

A dinner costing $100. plates was served at the Temple Mishkan Tefila, Dorchester, Sunday. This money was raised for the proposed Mattapan Hebrew School at 209 Morton street, Dorchester.

This unique method of raising money is becoming quite popular. Mrs. A. D. Barron of 7 Mallet Street, Cambridge, succeeded in raising her income $324 by inserting a Classified Ad in the Boston Columns of the American and Advertiser. Her ad, scheduled to run for seven days, was well worth her small investment.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

LIFE SIES EX-COFFEE KING

HE CLIMBS FORTUNE IS GONE

A tragedy of "squandered millions" was described today in Suffolk Probate Court when Mrs. Rena A. Sanborn, estranged wife of Oren C. Sanborn, former coffee king, fought for a temporary allowance for necessities pending trial of her suit for separate support.

She told of the luxuries that were hers and her children's during the time they lived in a stately mansion in Winchester, and then of her life in rooming houses for the past five years.

But her recall was matched by that of Sanborn himself, white-haired and aged, who told frankly of "going through half a million" from 1915 to 1920.

"This man claims to have squandered a fortune, but we claim he has assets he has not revealed," said Attorney John F. Fennell, for Mrs. Sanborn. But the former merchant shook his head, denying ownership of expensive luxuries.

Judge Pratt took the wife's request under consideration. Mrs. Sanborn told of a trust fund which she and her husband established in 1920 when they separated and she was to be deposited. She claimed that her income from this fund was $5,000 a year to $2,000.

This trust fund, coupled for Mrs. Sanborn called a "spendthrift fund," and Sanborn accepted the term, saying "My only income is from the spendthrift fund."

"I spent it," he replied.

"How?"

"On the ordinary pleasures of a man's happiness, various things, my home and everything. I just went to the country, and I married for 41 years, did not speak to each other in the courtroom. Mrs. Sanborn followed her husband to the witness stand and declared when she agreed to the trust fund she did not know he had inherited large sums from his father and brother."

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

Each day we shall publish a complete hand presented by Mr. Whitehead, together with a chart upon which the bidding and play may be noted. These hands may be played with cards by one, two, three or four players, before filling in the chart.

Tomorrow we shall publish Mr. Whitehead's explanation of today's hand, with the important features emphasized.

Fill out your own chart and compare it tomorrow with Mr. Whitehead's method.

These hands must not be played "Double Dummy," i. e., so though all four hands were exposed, or the play, say "for Spades," "for Hearts," "for Diamonds," and "for Clubs," the "N. T.," "No Trump," "DBL" or "double," "REDB" for redouble.

Yesterday's Bridge Hand Played by Mr. Whitehead

SALIENT POINTS OF BIDDING.

South's original No Trump was preferable to a suit bid. Owing to his preponderance of high cards, it was unlikely that his partner could have safely improved a Minor suit bid if made.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE PLAY.

Trick 1. South, the Declarer, counting his sure tricks, sees that he can make four Diamonds, three Hearts, the Ace of Spades, and Ace of Clubs. Nine tricks provided it does not allow East to take the first Spade trick. The danger then would be that East might shift to the Club suit before South could clear his Diamonds.

South decided there was no danger from the Spade situation. West, held five Spades originally. East could have held but two, and East's honor would block West, making it impossible for the declarer to make more than one or two tricks in the suit, as the Declarer's ten would then stop the suit.

If West held but four cards of the Spade suit, East would have had three. South would be assured of gain as he could lose only one Spade trick, and one Diamond.

Conceded, Mr. Reuben Rabinovitch.

BEGGS DEATH FOR KILLING DAUGHTER

By MARGERY REX.

New York, March 5.—Love is supposed to make the world go around.

New York, March 5.—Love is supposed to make the world go around. Some kinds of love almost make the world stop in astonishment.

Mother love as you've probably heard is said to be one of the finest if not the very finest, varieties of love.

Mrs. Christine Riddle of Red Bank, N. J., followed her 15-year-old daughter down into the cellar of her home. The older woman was suspicious and angry as she had been for months.

She was angry because the family would be disgraced. She found her world of love was gone. Mrs. Riddle had, indeed, gone down into the cellar with a child herself she was giving birth to a child.

TO PREVENT DISGRACE.

Mrs. Christine Riddle, a respectable and well-to-do woman, shot and killed her unfortunate daughter.

"She had said what I did you see," she said, "and I said 'I will prove to you that I am a good mother.'"

Now this fiercely motherly woman, who believed that it was right to rebuke her crying daughter with revulsion, has the police of Red Bank, N. J., to shoot her.

Runk, young and ignorant, found a charitable love affair a relief from the uncertainties of her home.

Mrs. Riddle turned her big black eyes on you today, runs a rough hand through her coarse thick black hair and replies:

"She (Christ) said once, 'How do you know anything is wrong?' And I gave her a slap."

"She said Saturday night 'I got a headache and I got to sleep.' I go upstairs after her. Sunday again she was sick. I said, 'I will get a doctor.' She said 'Go down stairs with your business don't bother me.'"

With our first friend we went to a doctor. I heard Mrs. Riddle grating after a while. I said, 'Where are you going when I heard her go up?'

FOLLOWED TO CELLAR.

"I am going down stairs."

"She said, 'I will go to bed in the cellar after her' continued Mrs. Riddle.

"And then I see that she had a baby."

In nearly every case of a girl in New York's kind of difficulties, the immediate family seems that their daughter "had no boy friends."

They were so sure "No, indeed," they say laughingly, "she had no boy friends."

And in nearly every, but not all—cases, has been a secret love affair growing into tragedy.

Perhaps if the Runkes had been brought up to regard love as a world, shameful affair, they wouldn't try to make it so.

BURGESS RUNS FIFTH FOR DEDHAM SELECTMAN

A majority of Dedham's town of people were re-elected at the election yesterday. The result, owing to the length of the ballots, were not known until today.

The notable exception was selectman John K. Burgess, who has been a member of the board for many years. He ran fifth in a field of eight candidates.

Two new members of the board of selectmen were elected by Raymond E. Davies and Daniel H. Spencer.

The board of selectmen was re-elected by a plurality of 800 over George Thorpe.

Spaulding and Frederick W. Swan were elected to the school committee and J. Henry May was re-elected overseer of the school.

C. Ingraham was selected collector of taxes in a four-cornered race.

The members of the town planning board were John A. Genderson and Earl W. Phillips.

Thomas T. Daggett was selected as a member of the board of selectmen.

Shanghai, China, March 5 (A.P.)—Shanghai's northern defenders, under General Chang Tzeng-Chang, today filed a new demand.

The Cantonese have strongly opposed Wuhan, 65 miles up the Yangtze from Nanking and 200 miles west of Shanghai.

The definite demand of the Chinese Government of Chen province, with the Cantonese, taking with him the southern Anhwei forces, his complete General Chang while standing off the Cantonese in Kiangsu, to what about and guard his rear against the new advance from toward Nanking.

The threat against Nanking by the Anhwei forces, coupled with the previously reported drive by General Chang Kai-Shek's Cantonese against Soochow, indicates that the Shanghai defenses of Shanghai are in a state of high alert.

Nanking and Soochow are both on the railroad leading from Shanghai to the north, and capture of either place would cut the lines of communication and supply necessary for maintenance of the Shanghai campaign. Soochow is in Kiangsu province, about 30 miles west of Shanghai, while Nanking is 100 miles further to the northwest.

Southern Chinese Army Planning New Attacks

MAIN STREET PLAY PLEASES AT ST. JAMES

"Sure Fire," the current offering of the St. James stock company, is just that. This travesty on the wholesome brand of comedies for small town life utilizes a playwright as the hero. To be sure, he seems more like a sap than a hero at the beginning, but once away from the "not" atmosphere of Greenville Village and out in the folk atmosphere of Clayville, Ind., he finds himself playing so many roles that he loses his original dumbness. The old stock with which this mysterious stranger arrives. Needless to say, the mortgage is paid, the villain is found out, and the old stock is sold with a profit. He continues to preside as postmaster while the erstwhile young playwright wins the beautiful daughter. For it seems the playwright

Whatever the merits of the play as drama, it is good entertainment and provides some good roles for various members of the company. Florence Pendleton plays the part of mother with all the customary pathos.

A New York playwright of ability but without ideas, was induced to venture into a small town in quest of material for a new effort. A producer had been so sold on his talent that he contracted for the play on condition that it be ready for rehearsal within a month. The playwright happened into Indiana village, for the atmosphere recommended him. Breathing the air of Main street made him live it all, and he was so taken with realities that he forgot entirely the proposed play. The last few hours of his contract, however, supply all the ingredients of the formula of a "Sue Fire" success, and in their compounding the Keith-Albee Players afforded a large opening audience at the St. James Theatre more than three hours of rollicking, whoop-and-howl fun.

Charles L. Schofield found in the Clayville town marshal a role that fitted him perfectly. As in the other productions of the players, Mr. Schofield's rehearsal was so fortunately turned into stage leadership, so that Walter Gilbert and Florence Shivers, who were the only two of a wholly stellar cast. The Clayville postoffice had enough "atmosphere" to convert several cynical city-dweller into Maine state boosters—and what a riot the conversion turned out to be!

Mr. Larkin Receives a Surprise Visit

Why He Carries Knife

[illegible][illegible]

"And I'm going to tell you again,"
"Is he going to tell you again?"
"It's all just as it was before he came. Why can't it be so always—always?"
Helen attended in Dick a arms. I was late, and she should be at home
He would know that she was not there. He needed her. Her place
The first time he said to her
"Oh, Dick, I must go home," she pleaded
"You promised," Dick gazed
"You promised to stay with me here at the inn all night."
"I must go," Dick, didn't help me to that point— After a couple have been married more than a year they ought to be common sense
The first time he said to her
"Why, your sister may not know what to do."
"Helen moaned the ~~words~~ dropping his hand limp on his knee
"I might have known that three years would be the same for my riage. Come on, then, I couldn't bear staying away from him

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediate.

3. By alter every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to take the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, thereupon of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
4. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, to be under a Secretary of National Defense.

5. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
6. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

How to Cure Socialism

The Remedy Worse Than the Disease

THEY WOULD MAKE HIM KING OF FRANCE.

This picture shows the Duke de Guise, who has an idea that he ought to be King of France. The curious thing is that certain Frenchmen of real ability, including Senator de Blois, think the idea a good one.

Conservative believe that if France had a king—this man, for instance, who inherits royal French blood—that would check the spread of Socialism.

Some Frenchmen think France is drifting into extreme Socialism, almost Communism. The erection of a French throne with this Duke and his Duchess sitting on it in the old-fashioned way, they say, would discourage Socialism, promote peace in France, Italy, England and all over the world.

That way to cure Socialism reminds you of the old country doctor who wanted to throw the sick child into a fit because he was "death on file."

This particular Duke de Guise MIGHT behave himself on a good salary. But what kind of CHILDREN would he have and what would THEY do?

Germany has just recovered from one Kaiser and his son. It is not conceivable that the French, intelligent and logical, would invite a king to take the place of the will of the French people. That won't happen.

A Soldier of '61

And on the Firing Line, Still!

Two generations ago, the Class Plot of '61 went directly from Harvard to the front, a commissioned officer of the 20th Massachusetts Volunteers.

He was only 20. His regiment is commemorated in the Boston Public Library, by one of the Lions of St. Gaudens that guard the entrance stairway.

Thrice wounded, at Ball's Bluff, at Antietam and at Fredericksburg, the post returned to become in time a professor in the Harvard Law School, an associate justice of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts and, finally, a Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

In January, every year, we are told "upon high authority" that he is "about to retire"; in March, every year, we celebrate this day; through ALL the months, whenever the court is sitting, he may be seen among his younger peers on the bench, more youthful intellectually than most, as active, as alert and as industrious as any of them.

On the eighty-sixth anniversary of his birth, the people of his native State salute OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, a scholar known wherever the common law is studied; son of the Autocrat of the Breakfast Table; brave soldier; fearless, untrammelled and deeply grounded jurist; great not alone because of his learning and his fairness, but because he is so human.

Get the Car Now

Enjoy It NOW. Let Your Family Enjoy It

Herbert Hoover resembled Satan in just one respect, see the first chapter of Job. "And the Lord said unto Satan, Where comest thou? Then Satan answered the Lord, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it."

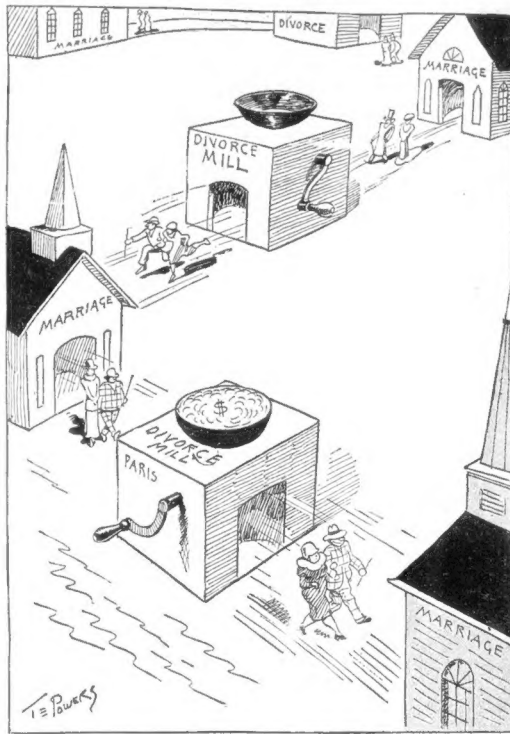

Herbert Hoover walks and rides up and down here in the United States with eyes open, underlands business, knows conditions and says that 1927 will be the best kind of a year, with a job for everybody.

Also, that our system of selling on long-time payments, which frightens many, has not reached a dangerous stage or caused harmful over-production.

Every man should make up his budget, extending over a number of years, with a good reserve for old age and illness. He should decide what he WANTS, what he can AFFORD, what he can surely PAY FOR, then get those things and enjoy them while he is still alive.

If you have an old father or mother, a young wife or an old one, get your automobile NOW and let them all enjoy it. Don't wait until you have saved up a few dollars. Some of them may die without getting any fresh air or seeing the outdoors.

An American Pastime

IT IS BAD TO BE TOO COCKSURE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IT is as bad to be too cocksure of things as it is to be a doubter. Somewhere between these two extremes you want to build your house.

The great point is to be sure enough of a thing so as to be able to use it, to live by it, to take it as a rule of conduct or a basis of morals, and at the same time to admit that you may be mistaken, and, therefore, to be open to conviction.

There are many truths good enough to work with in the world that cannot be declared absolutely indubitable. In fact, the most vital and necessary truths are precisely the ones that are essentially dubitable. You must eat, and you don't know the food is not poison; you must sleep, yet you don't know an earthquake will not tumble your house down on you; you must love, and you never know absolutely, you can only believe, that love is returned; you must obey God and live for an immortal life, yet no man has seen God, at any time, and none has returned from the shades beyond the grave. The higher, nobler and more worthy a man's life, the more it is woven of questionable, debatable material.

This we find out when we grow old. When we are young, we are cocksure. "Every new idea," says Castelar, "tends to make itself absolute, tends to cancel all limits, to break over all opposition to believe itself to be the only idea fit to live in the universe, and sufficient to solve all problems." LACK OF A SAVINGS ACCOUNT MAY HANDICAP YOU

Do you know that there are certain firms that will not hire a man who has not saved some money and who is not systematic about it?

You have always supposed that your savings account is strictly your own business, but you are mistaken.

You don't know when the lack of a savings account may react against you.

Not because the firm who hires you wants any of your money, but because they know it is an index to your character.

They don't want the man who has always put off saving until this thing or that has been purchased.

They don't want a man who has preferred expensive clubs and goes out with those who are beyond him in resources.

You have always thought it mighty fine to be taken up by those who have more money than you, and it has meant a great deal of cheering on your part to keep up with this crowd, but you have no business to count yourself a member of a crowd that spends and can spend more than your own income warrants.

BOSTON DAY & DAY

HERE'S a letter that's worth reading twice.

Dear Elsie Robinson: Are women equal to men mentally or physically? Can they hold responsible positions as well as men? Have they reached the limit of their capacity, or will they make further progress in the world in future years?

She fills three hundred pages with a lively argument to prove her contention that women are naturally as strong, intelligent and adaptable as men and, if given their rightful chance in the business world, will prove their equality, if not their superiority.

ROCKING A CRADLE IS NO MAUDLIN JOB.

THINKING NOTHING SOFT OR SWEET OR EASY ABOUT BEING

There are the days of old and specious. The human imagination has perhaps never been so daring or so fertile. Day after day we see leaders of science suddenly giving rein to curving fancies and accounting the world with some new intellectual vision. They seem to be whirled on by the swift rush of scientific investigation and invention.

I pass by for the moment, the amazing conception ascribed to the mathematicians of rays of light-energy being spiraled down upon this little earth from nebulae a million light-years distant, in order to consider, before it passes the grand stand of popular curiosity, a theory that carries us back to the north pole as the Eden of modern evolution.

The "North Pole Paradise" is a very ancient idea. Many have thought that in the far north, beyond the Arctic Circle.

Dr. William F. Warren's curious book, "Paradise Found" is ingenuously built upon old legends, traditions and speculations of this kind. There seems to be no question that from early times man looked to the mysterious north as the place from which his ancestors had come. They thought of it as a lofty central mountain, down whose flanks they had descended.

It has been pointed out that both the prehistoric and modern continents radiate from the north polar basin, and both these words radiate refers to a southward migration of mankind.

Dr. Warren quotes Dr. Samuel Beal, a learned student of British literature as writing: "It is plain that this idea of a lofty central primordial mountain belonged to the uneducated human race."

But I mention these things only to show that the theory I have referred to is a certain historic background. This theory, advocated before the American Botanical Society by Dr. Arthur Hillebrand, affirms that what we call modern civilization originated at the North Pole six or seven million years ago.

Before that a uniform, warm climate prevailed and western continents, several such vestiges as the fossil remains of tropical plants found in the north of the polar region.
